A DRESS OF BROADCLOTH.

This design shows a graceful model, developed in "smoke" broadcloth, trimmings of black soutache and black satin-covered buttons. The fullness at the front of the bodice is formed by wide pleats laid so that the lines are one with those of the tucked sleeves. The collar is made of tucked batiste, and the hat is of blue and silver brocade and white fur.

Blues, browns and the popular taupe are the shades that sell best. Women who prefer raincoats made in an exclusive style buy the goods and send it to firms that do waterproofiing. Of course, by this method one knows exactly the quality of the cloth, and if the wrap can be made at home probably will be cheaper, considering the quality of the

FADS AND FANCIES.

A very beautiful wicker table of a most substantial make is in octagon shape. The top is mounted on a hollow pedestal, also formed of eight sides, and one opens as a cute little door, fitted with hinges and fasteners, disclosing an ample closet for the stowing of books. A clever little device for kitchen use is an instrument for removing the pin placed on a table, tubs or sink that will receive and drain fifteen plates, if they are in edgeways. By the time the dishes are washed the first one is almost dry, and only needs polishing. Inventions for saving space are being brought out every day, and among these novelties is a hook shaped like a long loop for screwing to a closet door. A dozen or more garments, if first placed on coat hangers, may be hung upon this

Then there is a rack for shoes, taking three pairs, that can be screwed to a door It is nickel on steel and is fitted with teeth, upon which the heels of the shoes rest. This shoe rail is most compact. It can be folded for traveling.
